50 year veteran of the Kurow Bowling Club, Brian Trembath bowled the first bowl at the Club's Opening Day last weekend. An amazing turnout and fun day on the green!

At the Kurow Bowling Club you're always welcome to join us in the wonderful game of lawn bowls. One of the main attractions is that it can be played between men and women of any age. The sport has a history dating back to at least the 14th century. One of its most famous exponents, Sir Francis Drake, felt so strongly about the sport that he insisted on finishing his game before setting off to tackle the approaching Spanish Armada in 1588.

There is a social roll up every Wednesday afternoon starting at 1.30pm. Everyone is welcome to come along and have a go at this wonderful sport. Anyone can play. We will provide all equipment and our friendly members will be on hand to show you the ropes.

WHALAN LODGE TRUST

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

The unanimous decision from the Waitaki District Councilors to lend the Whalan Lodge Trust $780,000 was crucial to our development project and we appreciate their support.

The terms of the loan are very favorable and we can now get structural plans drawn up and then apply for the building permits.

The first stage is to replace the tiled roof, extend the dining room and relocate the kitchen, as well as creating 5 new bedrooms.

Replacing all the windows and doors with double glazing, redecorating the hallway and some bedrooms, and building a covered entranceway will hopefully be funded by other parties who have been contacted and have indicated support.

Our financial situation is sound. The community support-donations, fundraising, grants and time given played a significant part in this.

Although the grant monies have been used on the areas to which they were allocated, it still leaves a reasonable safety net in case of a sudden change in circumstances. It is important for our well being that this account is kept in a heathy state.

Sarah Green has resigned as our Facility Manager. In the four years that she has been in charge the reputation of the Lodge has uplifted to a level where we have a full house and a waiting list and most importantly a three year Ministry of Health certification which is recognition of her leadership, our Nurse Manager and all of our staff. An email from the manager of the Health of Older People, Southern DHB congratulated them on "an amazing result". Sarah is a person with a wide range of personal skills and a very caring personality.

On behalf of our residents, staff and the Trust I would like to thank Sarah and Tony too, for all the things he did behind the scenes. We will miss you.

We are also losing Brittney who has played a major part in the running of the Lodge. She has always gone above and beyond her call of duty. Thank you Brittney for all the care and dedication you have given the residents. We will miss you and wish you all the best.

All staff have attended training courses and gained certificates in Aged Care. It is reassuring to know that all are confident and well qualified.

A big thank you to Karen Hofman who retired during Covid lockdown but still turns up as a volunteer whenever she is needed. Her commitment is outstanding.

Mike Sargent supplied his digger and time and made a massive clearance of the trees and rubbish behind the Lodge. When the heaps are burnt, it will leave the area very tidy. Mike's generosity is typical of the support we receive from our community. We are very grateful, thank you Mike.

All the fencing gear has been supplied to renew fences at both ends of the section. This will make it stock-proof.

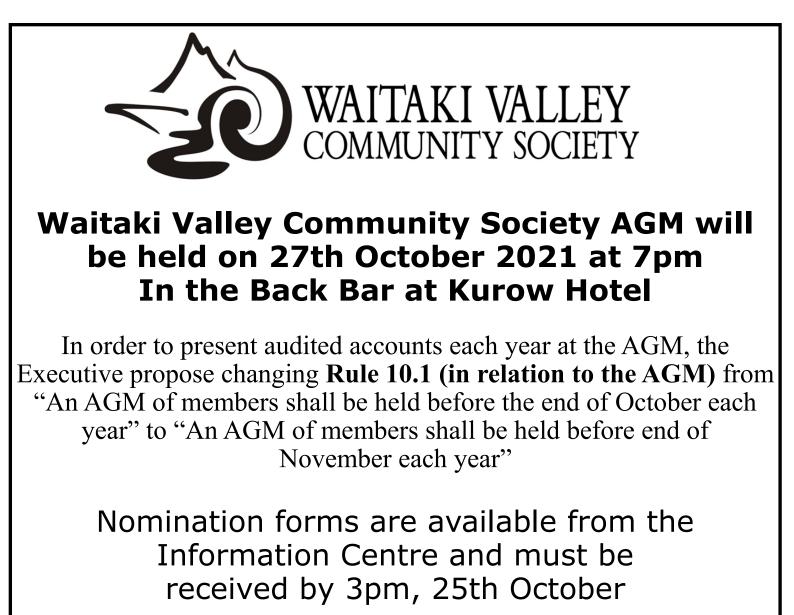

Russell continues to keep the grounds in immaculate condition. He also turns up and fills the wood boxes every day. Thanks Russell for going the extra mile.

A significant amount of work has gone into the rebuild planning and in the coming year we should see the results.

I would like to thank our Trust members, our secretaries Susan Scott and Judy Croft, and Gaye Schurgers who handles all financial ,matters for their commitment and dedication.

And to those who help behind the scenes your contributions are invaluable.

The Clayton Rail Car

(The author of the following account from the Kurow Museum records is unknown. The manner and style in which it was first typed has been retained.)

The New Zealand Railways Department, as ever, was endeavouring to keep abreast of world trends in passenger transportation and combat the competition of road vehicles. Several types of steam- or bat-tery-propelled rail cars were imported the last of the steam cars being the Clayton car which began its brief running on the Oamaru – Kurow service from Wednesday, 4 August, 1926.

Built in England by Clayton Wagons Limited of all steel construction this 58' 2" (18m) long, 8'2¹/₂" (2.5m), eight-wheeled, one compartment vehicle weighed in working order 24 tons 3 cwt (24.5 tonnes), with seating for 54 passengers. Although it is said that at one Christmas period no less than

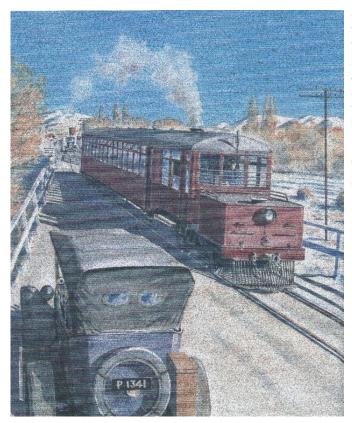

Number RM2 and painted bright red externally this rail car was powered by a vertical boiler supplying superheated steam at 230 lbs per square inch to two cylinders of six and three quarter inches (17cm) in diameter with a stroke of ten inches. During the initial tests a larger boiler was installed together with other modifications. At 450 r.p.m the engine developed 84 horsepower (62.7 KW) with gear transmission to one driving axle. Outside rods coupled to another set of 3'6" (9cm) diameter wheels gave additional rail traction. The designed maximum speed was 45 m.p.h (72kph) on level track and the rail car was normally run with the driving bogie leading; it could however, be driven from either end. Train tablets were exchanged at Pukeuri and Oamaru in cane hand slings.

Electric lighting, steam heating, throw over seating of contemporary style, brown floor linoleum, overhead luggage racks and curtains for the wide fixed windows were provided for the comfort of passengers who were charged the ordinary class fares. The designers omitted to provide toilet facilities, sufficient provision for the carriage of heavy luggage, prams, parcels and dogs; all indispensable requirements on a New Zealand train. A light steel framework, laced with netting, was fastened outside at the rear of the car with leather straps, a canvas cover giving security and protection from the weather. As a last resort prams were sometimes carried on top of the coal bunker. These prams interfered with the driver's vision, but he made sacrifices rather than disappointment young mothers. At the request of the postal authorities a Late Fee letter box was later provided as were pigeon holes for railways correspondence. Dogs were carried on special boxes inside the luggage crate, much to the disgust of the high country shepherds who did not like their animals so conveyed. Complaints were also make (sic) of thew lack of ventilation – the side windows were fixed – and of heat from the boiler and firebox which were separated from the passenger carrying compartment by a thin partition. On really hot summer days with all six roof ventilators open it was also necessary to keep the side doors open – contrary to regulations – to cool the car and clear away the cigarette smoker. The small, outward opening, fanlights did little to assist with the air changes.

Messrs Phil Olliver and Bert Bateman were the regular driver and fireman with Fred Quaife its guard. Spark arresters were apparently not too efficient and it is said that during its relatively short term of service on the Kurow line the Clayton car set fire to every paddock on each side of the line. Imported hard coal was supplied and the fireman using an ordinary kitchen type shovel dropped the fuel on the fire via a shute through the top of the boiler.

The car was taken on several trial runs after its arrival from England in the autumn of the year 1926. Between Wellington and Palmerston North under normal conditions the good running time of two hours fifty minutes for the 87 miles (135km) was recorded. The car ran from Christchurch to Oamaru on Saturday 31 July; a timing was made on the following Monday to Kurow and return and regular running began two days later.

The crew were very obliging, often stopping at the level crossing nearest the passengers' home to set then down or permit them to board the railcar. This service was maintained until Saturday, 10 November 1928 when the car was replaced by an ordinary steams service, running on the same schedules.

Increasing passenger traffic created by the hydro construction and an impending major overhaul made the changeover necessary. The passenger service was regularly run until 12 July 1930, when economies brought about by the depression changed it to a "Mixed" train. This led to many complaints from the travelling public.

Following on an overhaul at Hillside Workshops the Clayton car entered service on the Invercargill-Bluff line running an off-peak-hour service from Mondays to Fridays. The Clayton car was taken off the road on Friday, 17 September 1937 and did not run again. It was written off sometime in January 1938.

The above painting by Barry O'Donnell depicts RM2 crossing the combined road-rail bridge over the Maerewhenua River bound for Oamaru.
